Greenbacks Counted Twenty Times Before they dre Issued-Where Our Paper Money Comes From, and How It Is Made.

[From the Philadelphia Times. [From the Philadelphia Times.]

The general public, while capable of recognizing any flaws in the impress of bank notes or tractional currency, know very little of the care exercised by the Government in protecting itself against their fraudulent issue, or of the many safeguards thrown around the various stages which greenbacks undergo before they are placed in circulation.

Every possible contingency is so surrounded with strict enactments, and so much red-tape is necessary, that the expense of printing Treasury notes is enormous. In the first place, the manufacture of the peculiar paper used is supervised by Government Inspectors, against whose integrity numberless enecks and counterchecks have been devised and are strictly enforced. In the next stage, printing the backs of notes, the closest supervision is exercised and the strictest account required. For instance, in printing the backs of fittycent notes, which work is done by the Philadelphia Bank Note Company, in the United States Appraisers' Building, Second street, above Walnut, the sneets are counted at least eight times, and a register is kept of each count.

In this establishment over forty presses are continually employed in printing the backs of notes required to replace a worn-out curreacy. The paper is received in sheets of sufficient size to take an impression from plates on which sixteen engravings of the note have been made. The number sent in the package from the paper factory is not stated, as the box is sealed with the Government stamp. A return is made by the party furnishing and the party receiving the paper of the exact amount without he knowledge of each other's count, so that the possibility of any fraud upon the Treasury is prevented. register is kept of each count.

As soon as each sheet is accounted for The chief of that department, before he acknowledges the feceipt of any package, requires that the number of sheets be ascertained by one of his assistants. After the paper has undergone the soaking process, it is again inspected, and an ount opened with each printer, who, in turn, must furnish a receipt for every sheet thus given him. Then on a hand-press, with a girl adjusting the sneet to the plate and to the press, the printer strikes off the impressions one by one until one hundred have been printed.

The sheets are then transferred to the drying department and again counted; racks are arranged in a warm room so as to expedite this work, and in a few hours the sheets are taken to the counthours the sheets are taken to the counting-room, being twice counted in the change. Then they are returned to the superintendent of the printing department, Mr. John McGur, under whose management all these intricate details have been followed out and the notes

It is, therefore, safe to calculate that before a fifty-cent note reaches the public it will have been counted at least twenty-two times. So it is with all the currency afloat. The appliances for carrying on this work must be complete, and nothing but the best workmanship is allowed by the Government in printing the circulating medium. The deing the circulating medium. The designing and engraving rooms, with their delicate machinery and skilled labor, are marvels, and the system of checks employed throughout the various branches is such as to render the consummation of any frauds upon the comathility.

A Female Enoch Arden.

[The Providence Press, Dec. Yl.] A case has recently transpired in New-port which has given rise to no little gossip in circles where it has become known, being the return of the lawfully wedded wife of a man, after an absence wedded wife of a man, after an absence of forty years, to assert her marital rights. The story as related is in sub-stance as follows: Some forty years ago (report says forty-two), a young man and a maiden in that city were united to each other in the bonds of wed-

Tuesday night, at the Light Guard fair, Father Hone, of the St. Mary's Church, received the highest number of votes and was awarded the pitcher. He gave her to understand that he was not in readiness to resume marital relations with her, when she retorted that he need give himself no further unexpined a divorce. The husband replied that he was rejoiced to learn that, as it had aved himself the trouble and expense of taking measures to procure a divorce on his own account as he had intended ding. The pair then drifted apart, she disappeared again from this region, while he resumed the even tenor of his way. Feeling that he was freed from the bonds of matrimory, and not favoring a life of "aingle blessedness," he sought out a tair townswoman of his, wooed and won her, and for the second time became a married man. The second matrimonial alliance was attended with better results than the first.

Children were born to them as the years rolled on, and being industrious and frugal, the pair accumulated a snug little property, and a lew years ago, being in infirm health, the husband gave up active employment, and has since up active employment, and has since been deriving as much comfort as usu-ally falls to the lot of a man under such curcumstances. He had never heard from the woman he had formerly called his wife since their last interview, and heliaving himself, entirely free from her believing himself entirely free from her, gave himself no further uneasiness concerning her. Forty years had clapsed since that time. What was his astonishment when one day a short time since a woman rang at his door bell, and on being admitted, introduced herself to the household as the wife of its head. Here was a scene.

Wife No. 2 was aware of this previous marriage, but believed it to have been abrogated by a decree of divorce. The husband, too, withstood her claim, adducing in amport, her own story of a believing himself entirely free from her ducing, in support, her own story of a divorce related forty years ago. She admitted having thus informed him, but admitted having thus informed him, but claimed that it was all a sham, that she was still his lawful wife, and was here to claim her rights and privileges under that head. This is the status of matters in this particular household at the present writing. Where she has kept herself all these years does not readily appear, but it is quite too apparent to the parties concerned that she is here now, and with a purpose. and with a purpose.

We see each day fortunes made in Wall street upon very small ivestments to begin with, and yet we find those who hold back for fear their small means will be awamped; they look or and see their neighbors invest their 59 and 50 and realize 550 to $1,000 profit in the new method of operating in "stock previleges," when there is no risk beyond the cost of the privilege which is only one dollar a chare. If you desir information how to operate successfully, some to BUREWALTER & CO. Bankers and Brokers 19 Wall street, for their explanatory circular which they mast Faze, showing "bow it is done."
